Teen suspects facing felonies after GPD pursuit

Some Gladewater homeowners got an early morning wake-up call May 30 as a multiagency police pursuit raced down residential roadways, ultimately ending with two local teenagers in custody and facing felony charges.

"He was making laps, going up and down one street to another," Gladewater Police Chief Kyle Ready reported later that Thursday. "Woke the whole neighborhood up over there" as law enforcement from GPD, Gregg County, Upshur and DPS chased a stolen Kia Soul on Hwy. 80, U.S. 271, Gay Avenue, East Lake Drive and other routes shortly after 5 a.m.

"It looked like a parade going down the road."

The investigation's ongoing – allegedly, two white male juveniles, 16 and 14 years-old, nicked the CUV from a home in the 600 block of East Lake Drive at some point during the night and eventually encountered a unit from Upshur County Sheriff's Office after midnight.

The suspects (who won't be named due to their ages) escaped that initial pursuit, Ready confirmed, but local law enforcement coordinated their efforts and were on the lookout, "See if we could catch them going back through town."

From GPD's preliminary report, a Gregg County deputy initiated the second pursuit at 5:09 a.m. in the 800 block of North Main Street.

"They pursued the vehicle for probably 10 to maybe 15 minutes," Ready reported. The victim of the vehicle theft was one of many residents roused by the ruckus – he learned his car had been stolen when it raced past his house with multiple units hot on its tail.

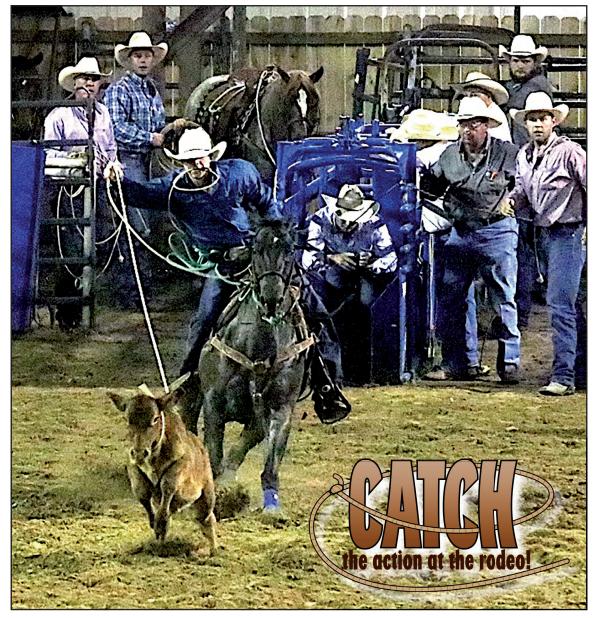

"It was going through neighborhoods, went down highway 80, finally coming to rest over about the 2000 block of Gay Avenue," Ready said. "That's when the two occupants bailed out of the car and took off running.

"They were able to catch the driver of the vehicle pretty quickly. DPS actually launched their drone to see if we could flush out the other one," but he was found moments later anyway, hiding in the woods nearby. Officers ran the plate on the vehicle and soon found the 61-yearold owner, visibly distraught after watching the chase from his front porch. Due to the man's labored breathing, GPD's officers contacted dispatch to request EMS, and the man was transported to Longview for treatment.

The teenage suspects were booked into Gregg County's Juvenile Detention Center and are facing initial charges of Unauthorized Use of a Motor Vehicle and Evading with a Motor Vehicle, both of which are felonies.

"We are looking at them for some involvement in some other crimes that have been committed here recently in that area of town," Ready added. Video surveillance posted to a local Facebook page indicates a link: "They had their faces covered up, they were wearing hoodies, but I believe it's going to be the same ones. It's all in the same area where this car was stolen."

On June 6, 1944, Allied forces crossed the English Channel and landed on the beaches of Normandy, France in a massive offensive to liberate Western Europe from the occupation of Nazi Germany. With 176,000 troops arriving by landing craft and ships, as well as nearly 14,000 aircraft, the Allied forces were able to secure Northern France within three months despite a vicious effort by Nazi forces.

Thousands of American and Allied lives were lost but not in vain as this Invasion of German occupied France lead to Victory and restored Liberty.

Girl found safe after being swept away in drainage ditch

A 13-year-old Gladewater girl fell into a drainage ditch during Sunday's severe storm, prompting a rescue effort that, fortunately, turned out to be unnecessary.

According to a GPD release, emergency personnel were called out to Bumblebee Park in the 700 block of Coach Cooksey Rd. in the midst of Sunday evening's downpour.

"Upon arrival at the scene, officers initiated a search of the area and spoke with witnesses who confirmed seeing the female fall into the drainage ditch and being swept away. The officers noted the dangerous conditions, with fast-moving water and high water levels," Chief Kyle Ready reported, reaching out to Longview Fire Department's Swiftwater search and rescue/dive team.

From a throng of locals searching for children, officers discovered the alleged victim's mother, who reported her daughter was safe in their Greenway Village residence.

"All children were located safe and sound," Ready confirmed Monday.

According to the teen, she was observing the rushing water in the drainage ditch when she slipped and fell in.

The girl described "being swept down to the runoff box, experiencing submersion and resurfacing near an unfamiliar road, from where she eventually made her way back home," Ready reported. She was evaluated by medical personnel and transported to a Tyler hospital for treatment. "This incident serves as a testament to the dedication and professionalism of our local emergency responders and the critical role they play in ensuring the safety and well-being of our community.

WOISD board's meeting yields no developments, details

The White Oak ISD School Board isn't ready yet to discuss or act on the status of the school's leadership.

With Superintendent Dr. William Paul on an indefinite personal leave since mid-May, trustees met for their second, special called meeting in as many weeks Monday evening. The district's elected officials spent almost two-and-a-half hours in executive session June 3 before wrapping up with no public action taken.

Notably, the meeting was Dr. David Ummel's last as a member of the board, and he made the motion to adjourn the session shortly before 8 p.m. Ricky Bodovsky will succeed Ummel in Place 7 after running uncontested in the Spring 2024 election.

On their agenda, the trustees were once again scheduled to consider 'Personnel Matters' including consultation with their attorney and deliberation of key administrative personnel. A vote was anticipated, but after entering their planned 'executive' (closed) session shortly after 5:30 p.m., the group remained sequestered until 7:57 p.m.

"We're not taking any action tonight," board president Lance Noll said following the adjournment. "We'll have more information, hopefully, June 10 at our regularly-scheduled board meeting."

WOISD Assistant Supt. Jack Parker is currently overseeing the day-to-day business of the school.

Crime takes bite out of officer

Fortunately, it didn't break the skin.

One of Gladewater Police Department's 'frequent flyers' was arrested after allegedly shoplifting and creating a disturbance at Dollar General. Before the incident was wrapped up, however, 35-year-old suspect Angela Baird allegedly added Assault on a Public Servant to the list of allegations against her.

According to a GPD report, Officer Tyler Sorrells was dispatched to 904 E. Broadway Ave. in search of a woman who'd been following customers around the store then left without paying for items. He located the suspect under the awning of a funeral home Officer J. Arteaga investigated the theft while Sorrells made contact with Baird who allegedly declined to show ID and ignored instructions.

"She continued to try and walk away from me multiple times and would not listen to my commands," Sorrells reported. Attempting to cuff the suspect, "She resisted and tried to pull away from me," as the officer, recognizing her, confirmed through dispatch she had 12 active city warrants.

While Sorrells stowed Baird's belongings, she reportedly slipped a hand from the cuffs.

Phelan wins re-election bid. seeks speaker post again

House Speaker Dade Phelan, R-Beaumont, narrowly won re-election in a hotly contested runoff race and has vowed to seek his third term as speaker, drawing threats from Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton to oppose any of his supporters in the 2024 primary.

"I've done it twice, Phelan told The Dallas Morning News. "I'll do it a third time." But Patrick was quick to threaten opposition to any representative supporting Phelan's bid.

"My message to Austin is clear: to those considering supporting Dade Phelan as speaker in 2025, ask your 15 colleagues who lost reelection how they feel about their decision now," Paxton said in a statement. "You will not return if you vote for Dade Phelan again."

Two former Phelan supporters already have announced they will run for speaker. Rep. Tom Oliverson, R-Cypress, announced his plans to do so before the runoff results were known. Rep. Shelby Slawson, R-Stephenville, announced her candidacy on Thursday. Phelan has drawn Paxton's ire since supporting impeaching the attorney general, who was ultimately acquitted by the Senate last September.

FEMA opens more disaster recovery centers

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has opened more disaster recovery centers in southeast Texas counties hit by recent storms and flooding, the Houston Chronicle reported. New centers opened in Hardin, Montgomery and Walker counties and are open 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Meanwhile, Gov. Greg Abbott added five more counties to the disaster declaration list: Dallas, Fannin, Hockley, Lynn, and Rockwall. That means more than 100 Texas counties are now under a disaster declaration after severe storms and flooding swept a considerable portion of the state in late April, with heavy rainfall, flash flooding, flooded rivers, large hail and hazardous wind gusts.

"I encourage every Texan who sustained damage to their home or business to report it using the Texas Division of Emergency Management's iSTAT damage survey," Abbott said. The link to the survey can be found at: damage.tdem. texas.gov.

SBOE to approve rigorous course material

Public comment is now open for new course materials proposed by the Texas Education Agency and under consideration by its governing body, the State Board of Education.

The Austin American-Statesman reported the state has developed academic content that will be offered free online for kindergarten through fifth grade reading and language arts, and for kindergarten through eighth grade math. SBOE must approve the materials for use in all public schools that Education Commissioner Mike Morath said the intent is to provide free, state-developed and vetted course materials. He said teachers have said in TEA surveys that they spend many hours outside of school looking online for such material.

"In many cases, the materials that have been cobbled together by curriculum teams or grade level teams, while seemingly appropriate, have not given students exposure to the background knowledge they need," Morath said. "You want kids to be able to read independently, but you want them to be really stretched."

If approved by the board, districts will receive an additional $40 per student to use board-approved books and $20 to print state-owned content. Anyone interested in viewing the proposed materials and provide feedback by going to the board's website — sboe.texas.gov — and finding the "Instructional Materials Review and Approval" page.

The board could approve use of the materials in November.

TPWD approves rules for mountain lions

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission last week approved rules for hunting and trapping mountain lions in the state, banning canned hunts and setting a 36-hour limit for checking traps for live mountain lions, kut.org reported.

Before the vote, there were no requirements for checking traps, and whatever was trapped could be left to die of exposure or dehydration.

'We don't need to facilitate negligence. We have a duty to manage wildlife. We have a duty to be ethical as hunters," Brandt Buchanan, a ranch manager and hunter, told commissioners.

Cowboys are my heroes ...

Yep, my heroes have always been cowboys...

The best cowboy I ever knew raised me. Before ranch accidents and crippling arthritis he rode like the wind. He and a horse in motion were something to see.

When the Round Up Rodeo rolls around every year I get a little homesick for a way of life that is mostly just precious memories for me.

Later in life my Dad was more likely to rope cattle while riding the hood of a beat-up pickup truck driven by Mom than from a horse. I am still amazed he didn't get run over. I don't know if that speaks to his athleticism or Mom's driving skills.

I have also seen Dad try to separate two full grown, fighting bulls while his border collie bit the neck of one and shook until that Brangus beast moved away from Dad a few cracked ribs too late.

Daddy taught me to corral cattle on foot or by truck, vaccinate, brand and more. Don't ask about the 'more'

Jim Bardwell can too, because my Daddy said that 'cowboying' came with marrying me. But that is an entirely different column.

When I was a kid the ranch across from ours had a private rodeo arena, the 4G-O and all I had to do was walk across FM 709 to get a taste of cowboy competition. Soon our fifth generation Working B Ranch and the old 4G-O may be claimed by eminent domain and Japanese High Speed Rail. I want to cry every time I think about it. But memories can not be taken, even by eminent domain. And those memories are nearly all good ones.

We will make a few memories of our own this week right here in Gladewater. When the Round Up Rodeo swings out of the chute Wednesday it will be a full course banquet of Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association world class competition.

We have a lot to love about Round Up. If you haven't attended in awhile, or ever, you are missing one of, if not the best, entertainment offered anywhere. From little kid Mutton Bustin' and calf scrambles down in the dirt to barrel racing, steer wrestling, bull and bronc riding to bull fighting this is a show you won't want to miss.

The sport of rodeo is one of the most dangerous in America. It requires a level of skill that no other sport does.

The Best of Bardwell

Barrel racing and team calf roping are precision events. And check out the bull fighters, they may be dressed like clowns, but there is nothing funny about the fact that their very dangerous job is to make sure the cowboys get out of the arena in one piece while they distract 2-ton raging bulls.

Now those bull and bronc riders, those tough old boys are a different breed altogether. I always try to visit just a minute with the young cowboys while they get ready for their > events. They are wrapping ribs, knees and elbows. They usually limp, share tape and jokes. They are passionate about their sport, their way of life and supportive of each other despite their seriously competitive sport.

What a parable for the rest of us. Passion, commitment, friendship and encouragement. Sounds like a recipe for living life well. Something we should all strive to imitate and share with others.

We all need to thank the folks who make up the rodeo association who work all year long to bring a world class event to Gladewater, Texas. This dedicated team not only puts Gladewater on the national rodeo radar every year, their event brings nationally ranked cowboys and cowgirls, as well as thousands of dollars to Gladewater in visitor money. To top it all off, all the proceeds from the rodeo go to college scholarships for area students. Scholarships that give kids a hand up and puts them on the road to success. That is pretty dog gone impressive.

Yep, like I said, my heroes have always been cowboys and that is never going to change.

Well done Round Up Rodeo directors, wranglers and sponsors, you give a great gift to this community and continue a legacy that spans over eight decades.

Gladewater is a part of our national rodeo history and it is still making history. Come and share that history this week. You won't be sorry. I promise.

And cowboys - thanks for the memories. Past and present.

RIGHT IN THEIR OWN EYES

To avoid chaos people must be governed by some standard, pattern, or blueprint. Such is true in everyday life and is no less true in religion. In the denominational world there is mass confusion. People believe, teach and practice every doctrine conceivable. When one asks for scriptural authority for these various and sundry practices, he is labeled as over-zealous, radical, and fanatical. So was Jesus, when He addressed the question of authority (Matt. 21: 23).

What we are seeing is, as Judges 21: 25 says: "Every man did that which was right in his own eyes." Moses warned: "You shall not at all do as we are doing here today-every man doing whatever is right in his own eyes" (Deut. 12: 8). Still, too many are trying to right wrongs in all the wrong ways! They decide what is right and wrong according to what they think and want, thus becoming their own standard. This anarchy of self-seeking, without restraint, is why such religious chaos reigns. I ask you: in religion, are people at liberty to do as they please? You would think so by what you observe. People claim Jesus as King, and Lord of lords, but feel no obligation to respect His Word (Lk. 6: 46). But true freedom comes only by "abiding in" the Lord's Word (Jn. 8: 31-32). Therefore, our goal should be to do everything we teach and practice in the name of the Lord, or by His authority, and not ours! (Col. 3: 17).

Our standard, then, is God's Word and not our word! We don't have the right to choose a church, or religion, that suits our beliefs, but, rather, we must adjust our beliefs to fit the church, and religion, that is revealed in the Word of the Lord. This becomes even more important when we realize that it will be the Word of the Lord that will be the standard of judgment, when we stand before Jesus on that last Great Day, when we will have to give account for our deeds (Rom. 2: 6). Truth is in less demand every day it seems but be warned if truth (God's standard) continues in retreat—then tyranny and chaos will surely advance. Think on these things.

Juneteenth's freedom celebration returns June 22

Each summer, Americans across the United States celebrate Juneteenth, commemorating the day – June 19, 1865 – when Gen. Gordon Granger reached Galveston Bay with 2,000 Union troops and decreed the emancipation of slaves.

The announcement arrived more than two years after the Emancipation Proclamation. Another 150 years later and the date was ultimately commemorated as a federal holiday in the Juneteenth National Independence Act.

This year, June 19 falls on a Tuesday – the Gladewater MLK/Juneteenth Committee's annual celebration is scheduled for the following Saturday, June 22.

"Juneteenth is an opportunity for our local community and the community outside of Gladewater to not only celebrate freedom but also to come together in unity and celebrate each other and celebrate our community," said committee President Odette Alexander. "We're hoping to have a lot of participation."

The 'Freedom Day' event begins with the annual parade through downtown Gladewater with newly-installed Mayor Brandy Flanagan serving as Grand marshal.

Parade participants will gather at 9:30 a.m. in the 100 block of East Commerce Street before rolling out at 10 a.m. and turning South on Hwy. 271. Following Main Street, the caravan will turn along Coach Cooksey Street before coming to a stop at Bumblebee Park.

The park's festivities will get underway at approximately 10:45 a.m. - hopefully later, Alexander says, if a healthy influx of parade participants keeps it rolling longer.

"Everyone in the community is invited to come out," Alexander said. At the park, "We're going to be giving away free food, there's going to be music, a bounce house for the kids and hopefully some other activities for the kids."

There's no specific plan for vendors, she noted, but they're welcome to join the event by calling in advance.

"We are also planning to have some car clubs in our parade, and they are going to have a car show at picnic. If someone's interested in showing their cars, they can contact me for that as well."

To register a parade float, sign up as a car show participant or reserve a vendor spot, call 903-806-5443 or 903-237-9740.

Dr. Ray Perryman THE ECONOMIST

Global Trade

Trade is essential to prosperity, and recent projections indicate that it's likely to rise significantly in the future. Long-term economic growth in any area is not achieved by swapping things with fellow residents, but rather by what a community, state, or nation makes and sells outside their areas that brings in new resources. As I recently discussed, US exports are growing, with Texas leading the way. It's one of the primary reasons that the domestic economy has remained resilient through myriad recent challenges.

The World Trade Organization (WTO) is currently projecting a 2.6% increase in global trade this year, followed by a 3.3% increase in 2025. This outlook is particularly good news after the unexpectedly large drop in 2023 of -1.2%. The decline in 2023 would have been even more pronounced if not for the strong performance in commercial services trade, which was up 9% to more than $7.5 trillion, boosted by international travel and digitally delivered services. Merchandise trade dropped in 2023 by 5% to $24.0 trillion, with part of the decline due to falling prices for some commodities (such as oil and gas). Fortunately, things are looking up.

There are several reasons to be bullish on the future path of global trade. One major factor is that inflation is down in many parts of the world, and lower rates of price increase allow real incomes to grow and, thus, people to buy more stuff. Another reason is that world economic growth is expected to be relatively strong. Trade has been remarkably robust, bouncing back from the pandemic within a year despite notable supply chain issues. Furthermore, commercial services are adding a new dimension to prospects, particularly with the expanded opportunities that AI is bringing to the table.

On the downside, obviously, is geopolitical tension. The conflicts in the Middle East can have a negative effect on trade, particularly if they escalate. Attacks on ships in the Red Sea are also causing disruptions. Embargoes on products from Russia continue to curtail trade. There are other hotspots which could flare at any time. Trends toward protectionist policies (such as increases in tariffs) or fragmentation due to the development of politically motivated blocks (such as China-Russia-Iran, for instance) could also become greater impediments.

International trade is critical to the economic success of all countries. It allows the production of goods and services to occur in the areas where it is most efficient from a resource perspective. This concept of "comparative advantage" was first demonstrated more than two centuries ago and remains foundational to human progress. The expectation of global trade expansion is good news, not only for the United States, but for advanced and emerging regions throughout the world. Stay safe!

City of Champions

a sports fan in Dallas. After winning the World Series, the Texas Rangers have earned the right to be called World Champions as they play this season. The Dallas Cowboys haven't won a Super Bowl since 1996, but they still lead the world in publicity. The other local franchises are certainly representing the area well in hockey and basketball as both are in the Western Conference finals.

The Dallas Stars arrived in 1993, and have been a successful franchise over the years, with a Stanley Cup Championship in 1999. They have been strong this season, with the most wins and points in the Western

This is a good time to be Division of the NHL and are the betting favorites to win it all and bring home another trophy. The Dallas Mavericks have travelled a different path to get to this point, as they were plagued by injuries and inconsistency for a major part of the year. In the latter third of the season, they put it together and played well. They entered the playoffs as the five seed and had to beat higher ranked teams to get to the Western Finals. The Mavs won their only NBA championship in 2011 and would love to earn another one this year. Although there have been numerous times where there have been two champions from the same city or metropolitan area in the same year (usually in baseball and football), it has never happened in hockey and basketball. Could this be the year it happens? If this occurs on the heels of the Rangers' championship it will be a joyous time in the Metroplex!

The two-time Super Bowl Champion Kansas City Chiefs were originally based in Dallas and were known as the Texans. That's the closest football connection I can make right now. For the time being, you can spot the Cowboys' players in the seats at Globe Life and the American Airlines Center, enjoying the games like the rest of us.

That's one man's opinion what's yours?

Burning questions spark fresh reminder

The City of Gladewater does not issue burn permits.

It's a frequent inquiry at City Hall and Gladewater Fire Department, and local officials are angling to simplify the answer.

Whether conditions are wet or dry, the municipality reminds residents to adhere to the state guidelines published by the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality. They're available locally through cityofgladewater. com/get-a-burn-permit/

The city's site currently links to both Gladewater's code of ordinances and TCEQ's 'Guide to Outdoor Burning & Information' before specifying fires allowed without a permit and rules that apply to all outdoor burning.

"It basically says follow the state rules," Gladewater Fire Chief Mike Simmons confirmed. "Normal burn stuff is allowed as far as camping fires and cooking fires and ceremonial fires," but there are prohibitions in place against burning trash and tree debris. "Follow state regulations and what's already on record."

Download TCEQ's pamphlet via tinyurl.com/tceqburningquestions.

The best strategy, Simmons added, is to check first to avoid a citation.

"If you have any concerns about what you're doing, contact the fire department and we can work with you to answer your questions."

Child's drowning ruled accidental

By Phillip Williams

Preliminary autopsy results show a 2-year-old Gilmer area boy found unconscious in his rural home's swimming pool last week died of "accidental drowning," but investigation of the case is continuing, Upshur County sheriff's Chief Deputy David Hazel said Monday. While authorities "don't have any evidence of foul play" in the May 28 death of Landon Cade Coffey, the sheriff's office and Child Protective Services were still probing the case to determine whether it needed referral to District Attorney Billy Byrd's office, Hazel said.

In a press release last responded about 5:25 p.m. parent found the child. to the 1200 block of Bear Road in the Bettie community vicinity after one of the child's parents found him unconscious in the back yard pool.

Deputies "found the child unresponsive and began attempting life-saving measures," but the youngster was pronounced dead at UT Health Pittsburg hospital after being taken there by ambulance, Hazel wrote.

The parent found Landon upon realizing "he was missing from inside the home," the press release added. Young Coffey was the son of Brandon Coffey and Heather Lewis, Hazel added Monday, but the chief deputy week, Hazel said deputies said he didn't know which

The pool north of Gilmer was fenced, but there "may have been an issue with the gate," Hazel said. Investigators are attempting to determine how the child found his way into the pool, the chief deputy added.

Child Protective Services is typically notified about "the untimely death of a child," Hazel had written.

Camp County Justice of the Peace Richard Penn ordered the autopsy performed at the Southwestern Institute of Forensic Sciences at Dallas. Penn said Monday that although the Upshur sheriff's office had a preliminary report, he hadn't received a final autopsy report.

Commissoners address procedures

By Phillip Williams

Upshur County Commissioners Court on Friday changed how the county will handle emergency expense situations.

The court voted to try to reach a quorum to meet to approve any emergency expense of more than $5,000, and to let the county judge and county auditor decide the issue if a quorum can't be mustered.

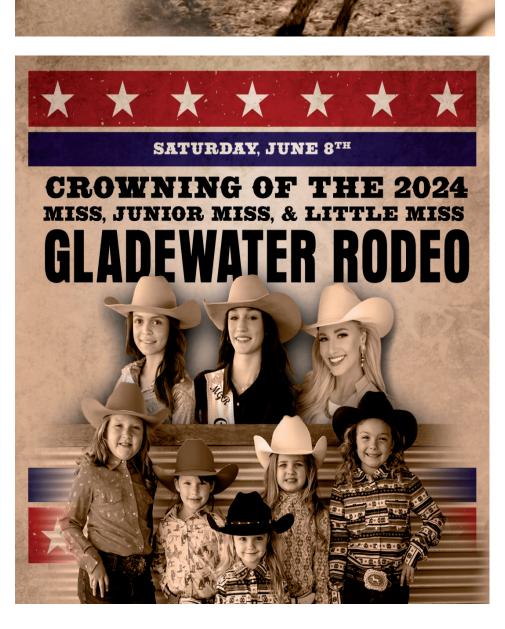

Precinct 4 Commissioner Jay W. Miller said that up to now, the county judge (currently Todd Tefteller) has approved such expenditures, but that the Texas Association of Counties advised him that the judge and three of the court's other members can call an emergency meeting within one hour.

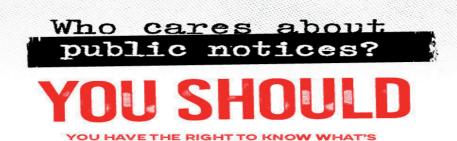

Miller said he didn't think just one person should be making such decisions. After Tefteller said he was okay with whatever the court wanted to do, Miller said one emergency expense involved more than $50,000, but gave no further details.

Miller proposed making the change in the decision process for expenses involving more than $5,000.

County Auditor Connie Williams said, however, she needed guidance on what to do if the court couldn't muster a quorum and the situation was truly an emergency, such as one involving water.

Miller successfully suggested that in that case, only the judge and auditor's office be required to approve. Tefteller, meantime, noted he had already made provision for emergency situations to be handled when he is not in the county.
